

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Assalaamu Alaikum wa Rahmatullahi wa Barakatuh

I am writing to you about AFIC – Muslims Australia's projects and initiatives that we have undertaken over the past several months. Alhamdulillah, our work and efforts have been directed to many areas of interest to Muslims and community.

One of the foremost projects we have been focussing on, as I outlined when taking on the Presidency of AFIC is to form partnerships to actively engage with Islamic countries through their embassies in Canberra, to form a vital link in the chain of Muslim unity and brotherhood, and also to participate in various exchange programs and initiatives with the aim of enhancing an understanding of Islam, promoting human rights and justice, and empowering Muslims of Australia. Alhamdulillah, we have managed to engage with the embassies by having a dinner, at which most of the Ambassadors showed their support and showed their willingness to form partnerships and engage with the community. The Ambassadors' support and attendance at the 2009 Iftar Dinner organised by AFIC and Canberra Islamic School is noteworthy.

AFIC's goal in the pursuit of excellence in education is continued, and we have experienced strong progress on our major initiatives. We are working on developing a second Islamic School in Sydney's Hoxton Park, to meet the growing demand and extremely long waiting list of students wishing to enter AFIC's prestigious Malek Fahd Islamic School, which has certainly set a standard of academic excellence for all of our schools to exemplify.

AFIC is also proceeding well with its school project in Melbourne, and we are also considering establishing, InshaAllah an Islamic School in Darwin.

We are particularly pleased to announce a permanent home and premises for the Islamic School of Canberra. AFIC welcomes the decision of the ACT Government to allocate the former CIT School of Horticulture site in Weston as permanent premises for the Islamic School of Canberra.

There is a considerable interest and a rapid growth in the number of indigenous people entering Islam. AFIC is collecting books and clothes, as well as other essentials, to assist the community. The Minister for Climate Change, Penny Wong, held an important and very timely meeting with leaders from six different religious traditions, who advocated that Australia adopt a courageous, ambitious emissions target for the sake of the world's future generations.

Faith leaders, including Ikebal Patel, President of AFIC, outside parliament house.

AFIC president Ikebal Patel attended a range of events over the past few weeks, one of which was a three day seminar of the Development of the Muslim community: Challenges and Opportunities organised by Islamic Educational Scientific and Cultural Organisation (ISESCO) in Cooperation with Ministry of Awqaf and Islamic Affairs, State of Kuwait and in coordination with Muslim Missionary Society Singapore (Jamiyah Singapore) and AFIC. The venue for the seminar was University of Western Sydney, Bankstown Campus, Bullecourt Avenue, Milperra. The Seminar started on the 4th and concluded on the 6th of November 2009. Amongst invited guests were leaders from Muslim NGO's, Academic and Research Institutions locally and from the Asia Pacific region.

Another seminar was organised by NEXUS in Adelaide. Mr Patel's presentation covered 'The Australian Muslim Experience', and discussed the unique journey of Muslims through the ages, and the contribution of Islam and Muslims to civilization. Mr Patel also discussed the diverse and changing face of Muslims in Australia and their social, cultural, linguistic and educational impact on the Australian landscape since the first settlement. He highlighted the Muslim community's contribution as educators and facilitators of opportunities that help to equip both the young and old to reach their full potential, as active, valued and productive members of this beautiful country.

Following the NEXUS seminar, Mr Patel represented AFIC and Muslims Australia, at the FECCA Conference in Shepparton, addressing issues relating to Islam and Muslims in Australia. Mr Patel also participated in the Halal Conference in China and The Hague in November 2009, returning to attend the RISEAP meeting in Auckland from 26 to 2 December 2009. And just a few days ago, he participated as a panellist for two sessions at the Parliament of World Religions, in Melbourne from the 3rd to the 9th of December, again reflecting the stand point of Muslims in Australia. As the Parliament of World Religions was held in Melbourne, AFIC was one of the sponsors of a Muslims Dinner organised by AIS and ICV to show our hospitality to visiting participants at the PWR. It was a highly successful event, which brought together the community in a historic milestone for Melbourne as hosts of the PWR.

Quran Competition – Islamic College of Brisbane

AFIC was approached to meet some of the dignitaries attending the Convention. We did this gladly and at very short notice organised a dinner which was attended by our Imams, the Iranian Ambassador, the Deputy Prime Minister of Malaysia, Anwar Ibrahim and Victorian community leaders. Alhamdulillah, it was a very successful event. We are now into the ninth edition of the Muslims Australia publication, and thus far, feedback has been very positive. We encourage you to play a more direct role by forwarding your contributions relating to your society, Council or neighbourhood for publication.

Our schools are a valued achievement, Alhamdulillah, all our schools have yet again achieved excellence in their end of year results. These schools include Malek Fahd Islamic School in Greenacre, the Islamic College of Brisbane, the Islamic College of South Australia, Canberra Islamic School and Langford Islamic School in Perth. Congratulations and well done to all our students. We also thank the teachers, support staff, parents and friends for their support and cooperation.
